

WODONGATAFE

Building success through learning

Exceptional UX for all users, including admins.

Challenge

To produce a website on a tight timeline from an external design.

Wodonga TAFE are one of the largest training providers in regional Australia. DNN being the preferred platform, when it came time to find a developer to produce their website they reached out to us for our demonstrated DNN skills.

Solution

Bootstrap 4 on DNN 9.

Working off a boundary-pushing design produced by a Melbourne Agency, our front-end team quickly produced the framework needed to deliver an excellent website. DNN's modular approach was a perfect fit for the design. The Open Content extension allowed us to translate the complex layouts in the design into easy to deploy modules producing predictable and consistent results wherever they are used. The dynamic content grid designs are easily achieved by website admins without any coding, just some simple data entry to specify the content.

The website is also integrated with a bespoke course management software platform. We adapted existing DNN modules and worked with the on-site ITC team to deploy changes, fixes and updates without any fuss through TFS.

Results

An exceptional UX for all users, including admins.

The user experience for website admins is often left up to the poor old WYSIWYG editor, which makes complex layouts almost impossible to achieve without some level of HTML coding skills. Throughout the build we intentionally implemented tools and modules to make achieving great looking content a breeze.
