

Kiamichi Technology Centers

THE CHALLENGE

Long-time client, Kiamichi Technology Centers, sought an innovative Web solution that would allow the educational institution to accept student applications online while managing submitted applications. This digital workflow enhancement would reduce KTC's dependence on paper applications and internal efficiency.

THE SOLUTION

As a result of a strategic consulting period, SteadyRain developed a number of custom DNN modules to facilitate the application submission process and streamline communication across KTC's multiple campuses.

These modules include the following:

- Campus Locator

- Events calendar with campus- and system-wide views
- Faculty and Staff Directory and Management system to allow students to locate and contact staff and faculty members based on various search parameters, including name location and education specialty
- Online Student Application and Management System to allow students to complete the online application process

RESULTS

The strategic website solution increased efficiency for application management

The DNN custom modules cut management costs through time-saving custom tools for staff

Enhancements increased online application submissions

The solution boosted student engagement through streamlined digital resources
